

Sarah Collins

Clinical Research Assistant

CONTACT

(312) 555-1234

sarah.collins@gmail.com

United States, Chicago, IL

EDUCATION

Bachelor of Science in Biology

University of Illinois at Chicago,
Graduated: May 2024

Certifications

- GCP Certification, Clinical Research Society, March 2024
- Phlebotomy Certification, American Society for Clinical Pathology, January 2024

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Detail-oriented and highly motivated Clinical Research Assistant with a Bachelor's in Biology and hands-on experience supporting trials and protocols. Seeking to contribute strong analytical and organizational skills to a dynamic research team.

EXPERIENCE

Clinical Research Assistant

2024 - Now

Northwestern Medicine, Chicago, IL

- Assist with managing clinical trials and the recruitment of study participants.
- Coordinate and monitor patient appointments, ensuring adherence to protocols.
- Maintain and organize patient data, ensuring accuracy and confidentiality.
- Conduct laboratory tests and data analysis using statistical software (SPSS, R).
- Participate in writing research papers, preparing presentations, and reviewing literature.

Research Intern

2023 - 2024

University of Illinois at Chicago

- Supported senior researchers in clinical studies focused on medical advancements in oncology.
- Assisted with collecting and organizing research data, preparing reports for publication.
- Performed laboratory procedures, such as blood sample preparation and tissue culture.
- Gained hands-on experience with regulatory compliance, including IRB submissions.

SKILLS

Clinical trial management and coordination ★★★★★

Data collection and statistical analysis (SPSS, R) ★★★★★

Patient recruitment and communication ★★★★★

Knowledge of FDA regulations and clinical protocols ★★★★★

Excellent organization and time management skills ★★★★★