Hi NovaFrame Team,

I'm reaching out to share my portfolio for the Front-End Developer role. I love taking beautifully crafted designs and bringing them to life on the screen—pixel-perfect, fast, and accessible.

Recently, I built a microsite for Harper & Finch, a lifestyle accessories brand. I developed modular components using React, implemented scroll-based animations with GSAP, and ensured full responsiveness across devices. After launch, engagement time on the site doubled, and bounce rate dropped significantly.

I'm also confident in optimizing performance. I regularly audit my builds using Lighthouse and usually score in the 90s for both desktop and mobile. You can see my recent work and GitHub repos at www.camwalden.dev.

I'd be excited to support your next set of launches or help refine your current design systems. Thanks for taking the time to review my portfolio.

Cheers,

Cam Walden
